

DON'T MISS!

NIGHTLIFE

Monika Kruse

There must be something in the water in Germany, because they are producing some of the world's most innovative DJs. A prime example is the wonderment that is Monika Kruse. One of the biggest Berlin-based techno DJs hits Beijing, bringing her record case of European magic and non-stop action with her.

Laura Jansen

For a soft, sultry night of enchanting melodies and heart-gripping harmonies, don't miss this Dutch singer/songwriter as she hovers over the piano and entralls with barely audible whispers of music. Laura Jansen descends angelically on Beijing debuting songs from her first piano album, Bells. With excellent, soft vocals over classic compositions on piano, this is one show not to miss. ¥80.

Eddie Lv spins hot house and techno in the capital

PARTY OF THE WEEK

You Spin Me

Top DJ Eddie Lv releases his much-anticipated new EP

▶ True Beijing dance devotees perk up their ears at the name Eddie Lv, the music producer and DJ whose sublime house and thunderous techno have rocked the capital since the mid-90s. Lv's infectious energy keeps the dance floors packed whether he's perched on a Yen party stage, spinning vinyl at his Infused event at Punk or at his regular Eddie's Weekend party at Mo Lounge. Now, he's taken all that experience and spun it into his first EP, Alright/Chinese Attitude. The release party is slated for Saturday, Nov. 26, at Haze.

"Every time I play, I get a great response from people—the happiness is infectious! When I see that people are enjoying it, it's like the greatest gift ever," Lv tells us.

The album is a solid set of two tracks: the dance floor-shaking "Alright" up against the more mellow "Chinese Attitude." While the EP marks Lv's first release, they are not his first songs—friend and fellow DJ Yang Bing from 3345's Underground Disco Project heard Lv's earlier works and asked him to contribute two songs for the local label's first release.

The EP is currently available on iTunes, Beatport and Amazon, but head to the launch party for the full experience, where Lv will team up with a phenomenal fleet of Beijing favorites including Ou Yang, X.Lee, Mickey Zhang, Di and more. With Lv ready to give back the love for partiers' years of support, this is one party you don't want to miss.
